Commentary

March was a busy month for company reporting with fourteen of the investee companies announcing full or half-year results.

On average, sales were up 7% and profits and dividends were up 10% but, as always, this encompassed a range of outcomes. At the low end of expectations was Focusrite which said that stock levels have risen and there is a delay to a new product launch, whilst kettle component maker Strix announced figures in-line with forecasts but has temporarily suspended its dividend to conserve cash to restore the balance sheet (it has committed to re-starting dividend payments in 2025).

On the positive side, Craneware announced profits up 13%, above analyst expectations, and Judges Scientific's results were strong with a 16% increase in profits and 17% increase in dividends; they start the year with a 'healthy' order book.

During the month the Competition and Markets Authority (the UK's competition regulator) announced that it may look to investigate pricing of veterinary services for household pets. CVS Group is a leading chain of vets and saw its share price fall sharply as a result of the news. We will await the outcome but are encouraged that the company is working proactively with the regulator in its review.
